

Zurich Income Protection: Covering your customers when they're not working

Zurich's refreshed income protection proposition has been designed to help customers who want the reassurance that their cover remains in place even during periods when they're not working.

There are many reasons why a customer might not be in work at any given time. They could be taking a break from work to travel the world or write a book, they could be a contractor between jobs, or they could be on maternity, paternity or adoption leave to care for a baby or child.

Zurich's refreshed income protection proposition has been designed to help customers who want the reassurance that their cover remains in place even during periods when they're not working.

The changes we've made, and range of existing features, offer reassurance to customers that our income protection will be able to meet their needs regardless of their unique circumstances and how these might evolve over time. Let's take a closer look.
