

When it matters.

Berkeley Alexander is now Everywhen

As Berkeley Alexander, we've always prided ourselves on standing by the sides of our agents and clients, delivering propositions to help you. We're delighted to announce that, marking a new era for our business, Berkeley Alexander is now Everywhen.

Our new name renews our commitment to you, to be there for you "always" and "at all times" (the literal dictionary definition of Everywhen).

We know that when we stand together, we stand taller, stronger, better – for our agents, clients and for each other.

Every day is different, that's why you need Everywhen.

Everywhen for everyone

While our name has changed, our commitment hasn't. You'll still be working with the same trusted team you know from Berkeley Alexander, now trading as Everywhen. What's different is the way we're connected, with a broader network, deeper expertise, and a renewed focus on helping you and your clients thrive.

This is just the beginning. Over the coming weeks and months, you'll see more of what Everywhen stands for and how it supports you. In the meantime, if you have any questions, your usual adviser is here to help, just as they always have been.

Protection that matters.

You | Your people | Your business

